

J-810 Circular Dichroism (Jasco, JP)

Research Assistant: Dr. Sara Bersani

Circular dichroism (CD) spectroscopy has a wide range of applications in many different fields. Most notably, UV CD is a very useful technique to study the secondary structure of a large variety of biological chiral molecules and how their conformation changes using different environment, temperature or pH conditions or interacting with other molecules.